

A long, long time ago, there was a man named Noah. Noah loved God very much. God loved Noah too.

One day, God spoke to Noah. He said, "Noah, I am going to send a big flood to cover the Earth. But don't worry! I want you to build a big boat, called an ark, to keep you and your family safe."

Noah was surprised, but he listened to God. He started building the ark.
Bang! Bang! Bang! He hammered the wood.

The ark was very big!

God told Noah to bring his family and animals into the ark. Two by two, the animals came. There were lions and tigers, elephants and giraffes, birds and bees, and even tiny ants!

The animals marched into the ark. Stomp, stomp! Roar, roar! The ark was noisy and full of life.

When all the animals were inside, Noah and his family went in too. God closed the door, and the rain began to fall. Pitter-patter, pitter-patter!

It rained and rained for forty days and forty nights. The water covered everything! But Noah, his family, and all the animals were safe inside the ark.

Finally, the rain stopped. The sun came out, and the water started to go down. The ark came to rest on a mountaintop. Noah sent out a dove to see if the land was dry. The dove came back with a fresh olive leaf. That meant the water was going away!

Soon, the land was dry. Noah opened the door of the ark. All the animals came out, hopping and skipping, happy to be on dry land again.

God made a beautiful rainbow in the sky. He promised Noah that He would never flood the Earth again. The rainbow was God's promise.

Noah and his family thanked God. They were happy and safe. And every time we see a rainbow, we remember God's promise to Noah.

The end.
